The Back Door Route

While London does not mention numbers, it otherwise confirms the Vichy report that 26 shiploads of munitions from the United States have arrived at Suez. It also provides the detail that they are supplies originally intended for Yugoslavia and Greece. They reached Suez by the long route around Africa and through the Red Sea, which accounts for their non-arrival in time to bolster the Yugoslav and Greek defense. They will be taken over by Britain and distributed to North Africa and Iraq or elsewhere as needed.

Washington also states that no United States ships have been despatched by the Red Sea route, and that these munitions were carried in vessels of other nationality. President Roosevelt has ruled that the waters do not lie within any combat zone since the Italian fleet in the Red Sea have been rounded up. Significantly, the British command of the Mediterranean is still in a combat zone. But direct clash between the republic and the Axis has not yet occurred, and the United States ships are yet avoiding the area.

If the fleet is as large as reported, its arrival is most timely, particularly if Vichy will well informed. The British and other war materials. These will make up the equipment issues of the British and other war materials. General Wavell's army in position to deal with the Iraq situation and the Axis forces at Salum.

The Seized Ships

Representatives of the 12 republics in this hemisphere have agreed that their respective governments should take over the foreign ships lying in their ports, pay for them, and make use of them in the manner required for other purposes available to carry supplies to Britain. There are some 100 vessels thus lying in port. They are now held in custody by the various governments but they were seized to prevent them being sabotaged, but have not been put into use.

Whether the governments of the countries in Central and South America will take this action depends upon whether the United States empowers the Government at Washington to take action for which purpose a bill is now under consideration. In the meantime, the probable Congress will pass the bill, and that the proposed action will be taken at Washington and all the other capital countries. If this is done, a considerable tonnage can be thus added to the supply fleet upon which Britain must depend for food and other supplies.

It will not help to avert tensions at Berlin and Rome as these proceedings are pondered that a group of German ships built in Germany and Italian yards and are owned in those countries. Nor will resentment there be any less because of the fact that the United States has proposed that the ships be paid for. The Axis powers do not pay for ships or anything else they can take away from anyone.

Axis ships taken over will not, it is to be supposed, be paid for until the war ends. To put the money into the Axis war chests would be carrying finance to the point of absurdity.

Cut Out Non-Essentials

Mr. Hanson offered constructive criticism when he said the financial burden of the war will be more effectively borne by the government, federal, provincial and municipal, cut down expenditures on ordinary services and non-military undertakings.

In this matter of non-military services and enterprises Canadians are used to a "high standard of living," as they are in private life. And in the public life, they are used to a "high standard of living," as they are in private life. And in the public life, they are used to a "high standard of living," as they are in private life.

Economy along this line could not be wisely undertaken, and is by no means likely to be undertaken, by a wholesale slashing of expenditures with little regard for long range results. To disorganize a department—federal, provincial or municipal—for example—without providing for its replacement in peacetime might be anything but economy in the long run. For the war will end some day, and the more efficiently governmental machinery is operating, the more ready the easier it will be to make the readjustment to peacetime conditions.

Where civilian expenditures can be pruned to real advantage is a matter for parliament, the legislature and the municipal councils. It is a matter of places where the outlay can be cut down without serious after-effects will hardly be questioned, but the question is where the cutting should be done is for these representative bodies to say. To whatever degree they can thus lighten the non-war demands upon the taxpayers they will earn public gratitude and give help to the nation's war effort.

The Fuchrer Looks Ahead

In his address on Sunday, Herr Hitler expounded an ingenious hope his followers may have had that the war will come to a victorious end. There is, he told them, a hidden power in the German people, a power which will enable them to win the war in the name of the Reichstag, a year of hard battle ahead. He spoke of armaments ready to the year to follow this, and as an outcome, if Germany wins, it will be something more than that Germany is stronger than any combination of nations that can be formed against it.

This a hyperbole, much nearer to a defensive attitude than the Fuehrer has ever before taken. His outlook was evidently

From The News

By Harold L. Weir

On May 7, 1941, the House of Commons dedicated in the parliament building at Victoria, B.C., and will thereafter be carried by airplane in 27 Canadian cities and eventually flown across the Atlantic for presentation to Winston Churchill.

This penetrating force (for the benefit of those who are uninitiated in the "fantasy") is supposed to symbolize the determination of Canadians to support Great Britain to the limit of their resources. It will be engraved with these words: "Part of the to-go-Canada's Victory Loan '41." Sponsors of the scheme say that this flying flambeau will serve as a heartening message to Mr. Churchill and the British people.

Mr. Churchill and the British people would smile. For police smiles are the usual refuge of Englishmen when they are embarrassed by theatricalism.

Doubtless there is a pretty piece of symbolism here somewhere. The performance was conceived in sincerity and will be carried out with fervor. But the margin between the sublime and the ridiculous is so very narrow that it seems a bit of a risk to submit the performance to this feast of emotional tight-rope walking.

Of even more extravagance than the stunt itself is the ceremonial that has been worked out to accompany it. At the "Fench Day" ceremonies, Canadians will be asked to place their hands over their hearts and repeat these words: "I hereby declare my belief in Almighty God and reaffirm my loyalty and allegiance to His Majesty King George VI. I declare my support for British institutions." It is not unlike asking a man to publicly declare his belief in the chastity of his wife.

We hope it all goes off with proper decorum, that no one snickers and that the stunt goes safely to Britain.

We still remember the bit about the hand on the heart is a trifle tricky. It would be as much more to the point if, instead of putting their hands over their hearts, Canadians would put their hands over their pockets and simply say:

"Here you are, Mr. Churchill, help yourself to this war." The British, with their horror of emotionalism, would understand that kind of language.

Stalwart, forthright action is advocated by Senator Pepper of California, who wants Britain and the United States to immediately occupy Greenland, Iceland, the Azores, the Cape Verde and Canary Islands, Singapore and Dakar.

He would also supply long range bombers to China and equip them with American pilots so that Tokyo could be bombed out of business.

The fiery senator would have the United States guarantee the safe delivery in Britain of all war materials shipped under the lease-lend bill.

Further, he would treat the Axis as the American government treated the Barbary Coast pirates and the Dutch gang.

Senator Pepper's belligerent demands are no more than part and parcel of the heavy pressure being brought to bear upon the administration by an American public opinion that grows more impatient every day upon direct participation in the war.

President Roosevelt's attitude is, as yet, conscious of this demand. But he is also mindful of his election pledge to lead the American people into a war which he prefers to wait for the American people to lead him into that conflict—a step which will probably take before many more months.

Meanwhile, his zeal for the democratic cause is expressed in such forms as his order for the recall of two million tons of shipping to be used in helping Britain and his call for greatly augmented bomber production.

This demand for more active combat may indicate that a new phase in the war is approaching and that a heavier air offensive against Germany and Italy is imminent.

From Nazi-inspired French sources in Syria and from Axis sources in Budapest, reports are being received that the British are calling for a holy war against Germany. Despatches from Beirut say that the exiled Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, a gentleman of the Jewish faith, has summoned all Islamic peoples in the Holy Land to the defence of the British Empire.

If this is true, and London has no confirmation of it, the British do not seem to be worried.

A few hundred years ago, when Islam was a closely-knit religious community, a holy war was a serious business. In those days, such a call to arms could result in a general uprising of Moslems everywhere, even up to kill Christians or any other kind of infidel.

But the good sense of the Islamic faith has ripened and its intolerance has moderated. The Moslem is no longer a religious fanatic, but a practical man.

There are, of course, a few fanatics who are determined to help by action to ensure total victory over totalitarian aggression."—John Winant, United States Ambassador to Great Britain.

Today And Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

The A. B. C. of Finance While every one realizes that paying taxes and paying into bonds are the only ways to prevent "inflation," the Administration has yet made no plan for the United States just what is the connection.

It does, the thought will seem haphazard. And indeed it will be haphazard if Congress does not make a plan for the United States just what is the connection. It does, the thought will seem haphazard. And indeed it will be haphazard if Congress does not make a plan for the United States just what is the connection.

The correct approach to a useful general statement is to be found, I think, in some phrases from the Battle of the Atlantic. The Battle of Commerce by Mr. Maritime S. E. E. "We shall aim," he said, "to finance defence entirely out of taxation and savings, thus reducing the funds available to the public for private expenditure."

This is the first of a whole matter. For, as Mr. E. E. E. said, the problem is not how to "finance" the war, but how to "manage" it. The government could raise all the money it needs by selling war bonds, but the problem is not how to "finance" the war, but how to "manage" it.

The E.A.C. Juniors baseball club will stage a practice session Thursday at 4:30 p.m. in the King Edward Park school house. It was announced Tuesday night.

Galloping Ghost Returns Once More To Football Wars

WINNIPEG, May 7.—(CP)—Canada's gridiron galloping ghost, Fritz "Twinkletons" Hanson, a spearhead in Winnipeg Blue Bombers' attack for six years, will play again next fall. Manager Joe Ryan announced Tuesday night.

Hanson ran the Bombers in the Canadian football championship in 1935 by phoning through Hamilton Tiger in the 47th minutes to clinch an 18-12 decision and helped his mates duplicate against the Grey Cup last year for the second time in history.

After that memorial game at Ottawa, Hanson announced his retirement but last fall the lure of the game brought the gridiron legend back into the lineup for the season. In the western final "Little Pistol" marked up several touchdowns as the Winnipeg gridironers gained their sixth western crown in eight years.

Hanson showed up as a member of the Winnipeg gridironers' first spring workout Monday night but did not lineup for equipment. Last night Ryan said the former North Dakota State coach intended to do the same again.

Members will tie off during the afternoon and adjourn later for supper at the course headquarters.

Clouts Two Round Trippers To Mark Farewell Appearance

DETROIT, May 7.—(AP)—Hank Greenberg closed out a baseball season and perhaps a career by belting two home runs, his first of the year, as Detroit Tigers Tuesday defeated New York Yankees 7-4 for a sweep of the three-game series.

Greenberg, one of the game's great power hitters, exploded with the precision of a time bomb at his farewell party and before he checked in his uniform to manager Del Baker the Tigers were lodged in second place in the American League standings four games behind Cleveland Indians.

Shifts Fritz

Notified in the dressing room that his local draft board had authorized his appearance at the American League pennant race in Detroit today, Greenberg said he would report on schedule at 6:30 a.m. for induction into the army.

ASKS NO FAVORS

"I've asked no favors and I'll accept none now," Greenberg said. "I'll do the best I can to become a good soldier."

The American League's most valuable player will be a back player at Fort Custer, Mich. Greenberg said today, draft officials said he automatically goes off the Detroit payroll at a reported $50,000 a year, reputed to be the highest salary in the baseball player and starts his army life at $21 a month.

Greenberg's two home runs, his first of the year, as Detroit Tigers Tuesday defeated New York Yankees 7-4 for a sweep of the three-game series.

Two Hills Boys Defeat Myram In Softball

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin
TWO HILLS, May 7.—Myram Hills school senior boys' softball team took one victory out of three return games yesterday when the two boys' teams lost out in the Two Hills Hawks 11-9 and 11-9 respectively while the visiting girls were winning 7-6 over the local team.

The junior boys came close to losing their encounter with Myram when they were in the last half of the final inning, the visitors drove in nine runs to erase the margin held by overconfident Two Hills boys.

An extra inning gave the girls a chance to win when they were in three runs to two of the locals.

Members of the Edmonton Gym Club will meet for an afternoon in the open air at the Highland Golf Course a week from Wednesday, May 15, for a business meeting of the organization.

Murder Charge

TORONTO, May 7.—(CP)—Mrs. Robert Burnett, 25, was charged with the murder of her 18-month-old son today, shortly after she was taken to the hospital for her husband's arm and, police said, dashed it to the pavement on Weston street downtown Toronto. Police said the couple had visited a beauty room earlier.

THEY MET AGAIN

University of Notre Dame football players who were guests of the local press on Tuesday night, following their 13-7 conquest of the Midwestern ball club last fall, renewed acquaintance with several Navy gridirers when the service baseball team plays here May 17.

BILLY HERMAN SENT TO DODGERS IN PLAYER DEAL

NEW YORK, May 7.—(AP)—Chicago Cubs announced Tuesday they had traded second baseman Billy Herman to Brooklyn Dodgers for outfielder Charley Giffert and an undisclosed sum of cash.

The Cubs also announced they had purchased infielder Johnny Hudson from Montreal Royals of the International League for $25,000.

Giffert started the season with the Dodgers but was sent to Montreal, a Dodger farm, two weeks ago. Herman, 31, has been a Cub since 1930, coming up in 1931 from Louisville of the American Association, later, over his 1932 in 133 games. He holds the National League record for most putouts in a season—466 which he made in 1933.

Hudson, whom the Cubs purchased in a cash transaction with Montreal, was sent to Montreal for the past four seasons, and was sent to Montreal during the spring training season this year. His best year with the Dodgers was 1938 when he hit .281 in 123 games.

Last year he hit .217 in 83 games. Giffert played in 37 games with the Dodgers last season and batted .246.

Members of the Edmonton Gym Club will meet for an afternoon in the open air at the Highland Golf Course a week from Wednesday, May 15, for a business meeting of the organization.

"What do you mean, Sybil?" Faith asked. "You know what I mean. I took you on this party tonight to be with Lee Brent's friend, not Lee Brent."

Van. The older woman provided her to stay and enroll in a three-credit course. Van told Faith about JOHN VAN ARDEN, her nephew and Lee's brother, who ran away three years earlier after a family quarrel. "I had forgotten it," Sybil said shortly. "And so I imagine had he since that was before you became a mistress."

"Thanks for the compliment," Faith retorted. "I must have come a long way in the last three months to have you call me that. Let's not quarrel about this. Sybil, it's silly to fight about a man. Why can't he be friends with both of us?"

Nearly 2,000 Tons Russ Munitions Now Getting To China Each Month

China Has Also Received From Soviet Scores Of New Planes—No Change In Moscow Policy

By A. T. STEELE

HONG KONG, May 7.—(C.N.)—For several months Russian supply trucks have been arriving in China at the rate of 650 a month over the Trans-Asian highway through Turkistan. That means that nearly 2,000 tons of Soviet munitions are getting to China each month. The truck lane is supplemented by slow-moving but important camel caravan traffic, mostly in gasoline.

These figures, which, of course, are estimated, were given by a reputable foreign traveller who just returned from northwest China and journeyed over part of the Red highway. They are probably not far from accurate.

Reuter's Moscow, China has recently received from Russia scores of new airplanes. Naturally she is worried that this vital supply stream should in any way be effected by the signing of the Russo-Japanese neutrality pact or by other disputes between the Chinese government (Kumintang) and the Chinese Reds.

EXCLUSIVE

The Chinese have been assured at Moscow that there will be no change in Soviet policy toward China. However, it will be several months before it can be determined definitely whether or not the Soviets can be taken at their word.

AVOID AGGRAVATION

In the light of the recent flood of Russian help, it is easy to understand why responsible Chinese leaders are anxious if possible to avoid further aggravation of the Communist-Kumintang dispute which has created so much worry among Chinese friends abroad.

During my stay in Chungking, before arriving here, I talked with authoritative spokesmen on both sides of the Communist-Kumintang quarrel. There is no denying that the situation is a full of real possibilities, but this much can be said with assurance: The dominant figures in both camps are keenly desirous of avoiding civil war—and for very realistic reasons.

The Reds want to avoid it because they well realize that a civil conflict could only be suicidal for themselves and would seriously jeopardize chances of victory against Japan. The Chinese government, on the other hand, is surprised and somewhat alarmed by the unfavorable reaction in America, Great Britain and Russia to the new Chinese Communist army incident. The government has no desire to risk antagonizing these friendly powers by precipitate action in this crucial period.

The present situation is one of armed truce, with occasional skirmishes of no great importance. Certain it is that the Chinese government is greatly strengthening troop concentrations around Communist areas in both north and central areas.

OFFENSIVE PURPOSE

The Reds fear that such military preparations are being made for an offensive purpose with the aim of crushing them out of existence.

BOATSWAIN HERO WHEN AUXILIARY CRUISER IS SUNK

LONDON, May 7.—(B.U.P.)—The British Admiralty has just announced the loss of the auxiliary cruiser Patia. A 5,000-ton vessel, the Patia was sunk by German bombers.

In a special announcement, the Admiralty made special mention of the bravery of the ship's boatswain, Berthold. The Patia was a rubber dory when the Patia boatswain—swimming from his sinking vessel—approached the ship's side.

The Germans aimed rockets at the boatswain but he plunged a knife into the rubber boat forcing three of the Germans to surrender. A fourth committed suicide.

No details of where the action took place were given.

Government spokesmen reiterated, however, that they have no intention of precipitating a civil conflict, though they are fully determined to prevent further aggression or unauthorized expansion of the Red Army. They claim that if the Communists remain quiescent and stay in their present areas, there will be no positive reason for a civil war.

Obviously, the massing of troops and the mutual suspicion constitute an explosive situation and it would be rash for anyone to attempt to predict the outcome.

While the Reds admit that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and the majority of those who may at present be desirous of preventing open conflict, they point out that there is always a danger of violent action by some of his best-led anti-Communist subordinates.

Though there is little possibility of any kind of German intervention, the settlement between the two parties because of their irreconcilable basic views, hope has not yet been abandoned for a patchwork arrangement to ride over the current crisis. It must not be forgotten that the Chinese are realists and compromisers. Appeals from America, Great Britain, Russia and the new Chinese Communist army incident, the government has no desire to risk antagonizing these friendly powers by precipitate action in this crucial period.

The present situation is one of armed truce, with occasional skirmishes of no great importance. Certain it is that the Chinese government is greatly strengthening troop concentrations around Communist areas in both north and central areas.

Stalin Takes Premiership Soviet Union

STALIN TAKES PREMIERSHIP SOVIET UNION

Replaces Molotov—May Mean Change In Policy Of Russia

By HENRY C. CASWIDY

MOSCOW, May 7.—(AP)—Joseph Stalin discarded suddenly today the official anonymity behind which he has led the Soviet Union and assumed the premiership, replacing Vyacheslav M. Molotov, who had held that post for 11 years.

Three official decrees, dated at the Kremlin as of Monday, said the Supreme Soviet had relieved Molotov as chairman of the Council of People's Commissars at his own request; appointed Stalin to succeed him; and made Molotov vice-chairman of the council, or vice-premier.

CHANGE SIGNIFICANT

Molotov remains as foreign affairs commissar, a post he has held since he succeeded Maxim Litvinov two years ago five months before the war began.

The BBC heard in New York that the Kremlin's replacement of Litvinov preceded the swing of the diplomatic tide from Germany, which culminated in Molotov's negotiation of the non-aggression pact with Germany, and the invasion of Yugoslavia, on Russia's southern flank, a further change seems to be indicated.

A communiqué said Molotov was leaving the premiership at his own repeated request; that he had, time after time, complained of the difficulty of filling that post and the foreign affairs job.

Stalin is secretary-general of the Communist party. A post he has held since 1922.

NOT UNHAPPILY

Stalin's decision to become the actual head of the U.S.S.R. government was not entirely unheralded. For in fact, Stalin has been making two speeches—following a pattern set by Lenin in 1922—in which he made no published address whatever.

The change came at a time when war rages in the Soviet Union on the south as well as on the west. Following German and Balkan conquests and the sudden shift between Britain and the U.S.S.R.

On Tuesday it was announced that the Soviet army had been reorganized and re-equipped.

LONDON, May 7.—(B.U.P.)—Believed sources said today they informed Joseph Stalin's acceptance of the premiership of Soviet Russia did not mean any change in that country's foreign policy.

There has been nothing in recent official dispatches from Russia to permit an assumption that big changes are coming, one course and the other.

The change this source added, does not mean that Stalin's supreme office not only in fact but also in name.

REPORTS SAY NAZI U-BOAT LOSSES HEAVY

LONDON, May 7.—(B.U.P.)—Nazi submarine losses have been heavy in accordance with the British Admiralty's policy on figures on U-boat losses. The British Admiralty's policy on figures on U-boat losses. The British Admiralty's policy on figures on U-boat losses.

Mr. Pattullo told The Canadian Press.

He spoke frankly and with obvious disgust.

Having given up all thought of going to Britain immediately, Mr. Pattullo said he intended to return to the Pacific coast tonight.

Securing Personnel Is Most Difficult Task Now Faced By R.A.F.

MANCHESTER, May 7.—(C.N.)—Minister of the Royal Air Force, Sir Edward Ellington, declared today that the R.A.F.'s most difficult task is to provide numbers of personnel.

Opening an exhibition of R.A.F. photographs, Sir Edward said it is becoming increasingly difficult to find aircrew to fill the "small gaps of time" with the aid of reserve aircrew.

British should "bring the measure of the night bomber to such an end as fighting last year brought an end to the day bomber."
